CONCURRENT DEAN DIALOGUES (CONTINUED)

ETHICS EDUCATION AND THE RESPONSIBLE CONDUCT OF RESEARCH: WHAT WORKS?

JACQUES CARTIER

The America COMPETES ACT mandates that all graduate students, undergraduates, and postdoctoral researchers funded on NSF grants and traineeships receive “training and oversight in the responsible and ethical conduct of research.” As universities respond, the need to identify what works has never been greater. Speakers will discuss the NSF requirement, model RCR and research ethics programs, and strategies for assessing learning and institutional climate. Deans from CGS RCR initiatives, including the current Project for Scholarly Integrity, will describe evidence-based efforts to improve research ethics education and RCR training for graduate students.

*Speakers: Jean Feldman, Head, Policy Office, National Science Foundation
Michael Mumford, Director, Center for Applied Social Research, University of Oklahoma
Lisa Tedesco, Vice Provost, Academic Affairs and Graduate Studies and Dean, Graduate School, Emory University

DEVELOPMENT AND DELIVERY OF ON-LINE PROGRAMS: THREE VIEWPOINTS

SALLE DE BAL FOYER

On-line instruction is an important part of how universities and graduate programs are evolving to meet the needs of a changing student population. Flexible scheduling enables working students, single parents, and others with time and residency limitations to meet program requirements; technology makes possible the frequent interaction between students and faculty that is an essential part of graduate study. Speakers from a range of for-profit and public universities will provide four perspectives on the necessary ingredients for developing and delivering successful on-line programs.

Chair: Dorris Robinson-Gardner, Dean, Division of Graduate Studies, Jackson State University

*Speakers: Denise DeZolt, Chief Academic Officer and Senior Vice President, Walden University
Michael Frank, Vice Provost and Dean, Graduate School, University of Maryland University College
